Highway Patrolmen Help In Quelling Elyria Violence

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — At least 21 persons were injured and 40 were arrested Wednesday as police fought roving crowds of youths in a second night of what officials called racial violence sparked by a black convict's death from a white patrolman's gunshot.

Two of Wednesday's injuries were gunfire wounds, authorities said.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered 90 Ohio Highway Patrolmen to the city in answer to a call for assistance from Elyria Mayor Leonard P. Reichlin.

"We've never had racial trouble, but now we do," Reichlin said earlier Wednesday.

The city was calm early today, authorities said.

But Wednesday night, police and firemen said they answered repeated reports of firebombings, looting, rock-throwing and assaults through a six-hour period before the highway patrol was called to help.

Firemen responding to a tavern blaze were stoned by a crowd that succeeded in driving them from the fire. Authorities said there was "sniper fire" that a policeman said sounded like "automatic weapons," and some of the fire hoses were severed.

When firemen returned, resident area blacks helped hold off a crowd so the firefighters could reach the flames, a fire dispatcher said.

And before the highway patrolmen arrived, other residents aided firemen and police by talking with youths, asking them to end the disorders and go home.

The injured included 85-year-old Frank Treasure, who told police the store was attacked and beaten Wednesday afternoon by a group of 25 to 30 young blacks who took his wallet and cane, along with $30.

State Agencies Can't Pay Rent In New Office Tower

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State agencies say they can't pay their rent in the new State Office Tower, leaving the host Ohio Building Authority with only a week's supply of cash to pay its bills.

Dana Stewart, OBA director, said the authority will run out of cash on Aug. 21 unless it receives a partial rent payment next week.

But the partial payment, pegged at $497,000, would cover expenses for only 30 days, he said. The OBA and other state agencies are negotiating on what will be done after that.

Stewart said the OBA has received no rent payments since the fiscal year began July 1.

The rent should be coming from the Administrative Services Department, which serves as a middleman between the OBA and state agencies having offices in the tower.

But the administrative services department and other state agencies say they can't pay the rent because the rent money was not appropriated.

And the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee admitted that the state's massive two-year state budget slipped through the legislature with

A couple and two children were injured when their car collided with a train as they fled a gang that was throwing rocks at the vehicle, police said. One of the last injuries was a leg gunshot wound police said a black received from a carload of whites.

Several newsmen received minor injuries as rock throwers smashed windows of their cars.

City police said their 13 arrests were split almost evenly between blacks and whites, most of them charged with inciting to riot. Included were three white persons found with shotguns in two incidents, two white persons shooting from a car and a group of whites throwing firebombs at targets that included a policeman.

One carload of blacks arrested was found to have groceries taken from a looted market, and another black was arrested inside the market some time after the vandalism, police said.

County officials said most of those they jailed were whites.

Police Chief Maurice C. Flood said late Wednesday he considered the flareup "somewhat racial" because of the fatal shooting incident early Tuesday morning he said sparked the disturbances.

Flood said the crowds that ranged through the predominately black southwestern corner of this city involved 400 to 500 persons, "mostly young blacks." He also said there were carloads of young whites cruising the area.

Asked about a police sergeant's comment that highway patrolmen were called because police were outnumbered and in danger of their lives, Flood said there were "ticklish situations in which there was potential for some loss of lives, but that didn't prevent policemen from going in."

only 60 per cent of the money needed to cover the rent.

"We've got to deal with it one way or another," said Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown.

The legislature appropriated only $8 million for rent in the first year of the biennium, while the OBA has billed the state agencies for $11.1 million.

The shortage existed even though the Legislative Budget Office warned the legislature on June 9 that the budget for a two-year period fell about $10 million short in covering tower rents.

Meshel said the budget office memo apparently was overlooked during work on the budget.

State agencies also have protested that the OBA wants the entire year's rent paid in advance. Administrative Services Director Richard Krabach said many of the agencies involved are allowed by law to make such payments only quarterly.

Stewart said representatives of the Administrative Services Department and the OBA are negotiating a settlement to the rent confusion.

"It can't go on for too long, though," Stewart said. "We have obligations to meet."

Prices of cars, the steel that goes into them, as well as plastics, family flour and refined lead are headed up again as the current round of higher costs appears to be picking up steam.

General Motors Corp., stating that the company's cost per car had risen $375 since last fall, said Wednesday it is boosting prices on its 1976 models.

GM said that with optional equipment, the average retail price of 1976 models would go up $248, or 4.7 per cent, to $4,970. The base price for the average GM model will go up $206, or 4.4 per cent.

The other major U.S. car makers are expected to follow No. 1 GM's lead closely. American Motors Corp. has released tentative 1976 price schedules calling for average $200, or 6 per cent, increases, and Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. have hinted previously that their prices will rise from $200 to $330 on 1976 models.

Expectations of higher prices this fall failed to spur car buying in early August as the U.S. car industry reported sales in the Aug. 1-10 period plunged 29 per cent from a year ago to a 14-year low.

Apparently influencing the auto industry's price moves was the further spread of higher steel prices. On Wednesday, Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's No. 2 steel maker, announced price changes on its steel products — both upward and downward — that average out to an increase of just under 4 per cent, matching similar price changes posted Friday by top-ranked U.S. Steel Corp.

National Steel Corp., the industry's

No. 3 in size, said it was boosting prices on flatrolled and coated steel products in line with other companies, effective Sept. 1.

Besides cars, the announced steel price increases could eventually affect the cost to consumers of all types of household appliances, and would also boost costs to railroads for rail and tie replacements.

Consumers also will be likely to find higher prices for family flour and other bakery goods on the grocery shelf. Pillsbury Co. said Wednesday the wholesale price per hundredweight of family flour will go up $1.40 to $17.82, equalling a seven-cent wholesale price rise on a fivepound bag. Grocery stores will decide if retail flour prices will go up in response.

A week ago, General Mills and International Multifoods announced $1.60 a hundredweight wholesale flour price increases, a bit higher than Pillsbury's announcement.

Onion prices are also going up again, with the increase blamed on small spring and summer crops.

And in price moves that could eventually mean higher food bills by raising the cost of the plastic packaging many grocery products are wrapped in, DuPont Co. and Union Carbide Corp. said Wednesday that effective Sept. 1 prices on a broad range of polyethylene plastic products will rise by 2 cents a pound.

The price rise by the No. 1 and No. 2 chemical firms was kicked off on Tuesday by the smaller U.S. Industrial Chemicals Co., a unit of National Distillers and Chemical Corp.

Ford, Zarb Eye Energy Problems

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Starting a heavy work segment of his work-play vacation, President Ford is meeting with Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb to nail down critical energy decisions.

Included is an almost certain Ford decision to appeal to the Supreme Court for a stay of a lower court ruling that his $2-a-barrel oil import tariff is illegal.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Tuesday: "I've assumed, and I think everyone has assumed, from the beginning that it would be appealed ... to try to have the authority of the President upheld."

The President and Zarb also planned today to discuss ways to ease any inflationary impact from Ford's planned veto of a congressional six-month extension of domestic oil price controls, which expire Aug. 31.

And they were to polish an energy speech Ford is to give Friday to an energy-environment group at Eagle's Nest, 11,200 feet high, 3,000 feet above this Alpine-style resort village.

Ford shifts attention to the Middle East over the weekend, when Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will be in Vail to discuss prospects for a new interim peace settlement between Israel and Egypt.

Kissinger and Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz met for the second time in 24 hours Wednesday, and State Department sources in Washington indicated the secretary is anxious to have the outlines of an agreement firmly in hand before going to Vail.

The President will follow the weekend talks with a Monday-Tuesday swing into Iowa, Minnesota and Illinois before returning to Vail for the final week of his two-week vacation.

The Midwest trip will be both official and political, and includes addresses at the Iowa State Fair and the American Legion convention in Minneapolis. He'll also address Republican fund-raising affairs in Des Moines and Minneapolis and a White House regional conference on domestic problems in Peoria, Ill.

En route back to Washington Aug. 24-25, Ford will speak at Liberty Dam, Mont., Chicago and Milwaukee.

The President planned to play golf for the fourth straight day today. On Wednesday, he played 12 holes and took a lesson from Vail pro Bob Wolfe, who said one of Ford's problems is the way he grips the club.

Ford was host for a Wednesday evening reception at his rented condominium for 10 Colorado Republican leaders. Mrs. Ford had lunch with friends in a Vail restaurant, and the President and his wife had dinner at home with their son Jack, who arrived here Wednesday.

4 More Die In Irish Violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Ambulance men say more bodies may be found in the rubble of a bar blown up by a bomb. At least four persons died in the terrorist attack on the haunt of militant Protestants.

The dead included a security guard gunned down at the door and a woman. More than 40 persons were injured, some of them seriously.

No group immediately claimed responsibility for Wednesday's attack on the Bayardo Bar in the Protestant-dominated Shankill Road area.

Police and witnesses gave the following account:

Just before closing time a gunman opened fire from a dark-blue car on two security men posted at the door of the bar, killing one and wounding the other.

A companion flung the bomb through the unguarded door of the bar. It exploded quickly, almost wrecking the building decorated with the flags of Ulster and of the Ulster Defense Association, one of the largest Protestant paramilitary groups.

A woman customer injured in the blast said: "It was terrible. The bomb went off almost immediately and the building was shaken to its foundations."

The car raced off in the direction of the Crumlin Road, an Irish Republican Army stronghold. The gunmen fired at people waiting at a bus stop, but no one was reported hit.

City Right To Limit Growth Faces Supreme Court Test

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A legal case testing a city's right to limit growth and preserve its "small town character" apparently is headed for the U.S. Supreme Court.

The 9th U.S. Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that the city of Petaluma, Calif., acted within its rights with a 1972 ordinance seeking to maintain its "small-town character, its open spaces, and to grow at an orderly and deliberate pace."

Petaluma, 40 miles north of San Francisco, grew in population from 10,300 in 1950 to 24,500 in 1970. Then explosive development boosted population to 30,500 by 1972.

The city council imposed a development freeze in 1971 and the following year voted a 500-a-year limit on new housing units in projects involving five or more units. The law does not affect single-family home construction, or even four-unit apartments which are not part of a larger project.

"We're going to the Supreme Court with this," said Gordon Blackley, executive vice president of the Associated Building Industry of Northern California, after the appeals court decision was announced. "We regard this as the most critical land use planning issue in the country..."

"The issue is this: The city this year can impose a 500-a-year limit in new housing units. If this stands, then that city council can steadily cut it back to 200, to 100, to zero."

The Court of Appeals decision reversed a trial judge's verdict holding that Petaluma's "no growth" ordinance is unconstitutional.

U.S. District Court Judge Lloyd H. Burke had ruled that the ordinance violated citizens' right to travel or to abide and settle and that the ordinance abridged rights of equal protection.

The appeals court rejected Burke's finding that the Petaluma Plan violated the constitutional right to travel. It said the plaintiffs in the suit, two land owners and the county builders' association, lacked standing to claim violation of the right to travel.

The court said the plaintiffs' own right to travel was not directly affected and they could not raise the claim for prospective home buyers.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, struggling against inflation worries, declined again today in moderate trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.10 at 819.46. Declines outnumbered gainers by close to a 3-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said it appeared the market was still feeling the effects of price increases posted Wednesday by a variety of companies on steel, cars, lead and certain plastic resins.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .16 to 85.90.

None of Wednesday's price announcements came as a real surprise on Wall Street. But analysts said they nevertheless served to emphasize the recent upward trend in a number of key commodities, materials and finished products.

General Motors, which detailed its price-increase plans for its 1976 models late Wednesday, slipped ¼ to 48¾.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks lost .17 to 45.1.

Prostitution Ring Slayings Investigated

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Investigators suspect the recent death of a Cincinnati man may be the fourth, and possibly the fifth, linked to a prostitution ring operating in several states, a Tennessee Bureau of Criminal Identification agent says.

The body of James Shelley, 34, Cincinnati, was found July 31 in Douglas Lake. TBI agent Bill Russell said Wednesday Shelley had been arrested on prostitution charges at a truck stop near here in January 1973.

Shelley's body, with hands bound behind his back and feet tied with an electric cord, was recovered 25 miles east of here.

Russell said investigators have linked the deaths of three other men in recent months to prostitution activities at truck stops.

Russell referred to the deaths of David Carl Fornash, 48, Covington, Ky.; Kenneth D. Miles, 42, Nashville, and Eugene Cochran, Newport, Tenn.

Fornash, described by Russell as an acquaintance of Shelley, was found fatally shot in the head in a burning car near Douglas Lake in April.

Miles was found shot to death in December along Interstate 65 north of Nashville. Cochran was killed last year near Newport in Cocke County.

Russell said he was told that a Georgia man, who was formerly a partner of Shelley's at a truck stop in Orangeburg, S.C., was killed last month in Georgia. Shelley's burned out car was found July 29 near Orangeburg.

"There is no doubt that these killings and the prostitution are related to the crime syndicates," Russell said. "I have been told that if we can collect the loose ends it will lead us to the Chicago underworld."

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, struggling against inflation worries, declined again today in moderate trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.10 to 819.46. Declines outnumbered gainers by close to a 3-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said it appeared the market was still feeling the effects of price increases posted Wednesday by a variety of companies on steel, cars, lead and certain plastic resins.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .16 to 85.90.

None of Wednesday's price announcements came as a real surprise on Wall Street. But analysts said they nevertheless served to emphasize the recent upward trend in a number of key commodities, materials and finished products.

General Motors, which detailed its price-increase plans for its 1976 models late Wednesday, slipped 1/4 to 48 3/4.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks lost .17 to 45.1.

VA Reverses Rule On Aid Payments

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Veterans Administration has reversed an order that would have deprived 3,200 veterans who will attend Ohio State university this fall of receiving benefit payments for December.

The VA earlier said because the break between OSU's autumn and winter quarters exceeded one month, veterans would not be able to receive December benefits.

Rodney J. Harrison, director of student financial aid, said the office of U. S. Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, helped bring about the reversal of the VA order.

VA Reverses Rule On Aid Payments

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Veterans Administration has reversed an order that would have deprived 3,200 veterans who will attend Ohio State university this fall of receiving benefit payments for December.

The VA earlier said because the break between OSU's autumn and winter quarters exceeded one month, veterans would not be able to receive December benefits.

Rodney J. Harrison, director of student financial aid, said the office of U. S. Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, helped bring about the reversal of the VA order.

Weather Forecasts Simplified

As the months advance, seasons will also change. As the seasons change, so will the weather.

In the forefront during this period will be the meteorologists, better known as the weatherman.

Since there are so many weather forecasters and different forecasts, we offer a simple glossary of weather terms to help you understand what is meant:

Hot and humid: Beer and underwear weather.

Becoming partly cloudy: Anything from wispy clouds to zero visibility.

Scattered showers: Get out the boats.

Thirty per cent chance of rain: Three guys think it'll rain, and seven don't.

Slightly cooler: Maybe one degree, maybe overcoat time.

Fog in low-lying areas: Up to 20,000 feet.

Snow flurries: Tire chains and hip boots needed.

Locally heavy rains: See scattered showers.

Unsettled: We don't know what it's going to do.

Mostly sunny and warm: Mostly cloudy and cool.

Light frost expected: Zero by morning.

Advanced weather instruments: A wetted finger and an open window.

What A Difference

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — The ifs of life: Time's toll was clearly etched on the faces of two historic opponents when their most recent pictures appeared almost simultaneously the other day. If anything, Richard Nixon, 62, appeared older than Alger Hiss, 70. Nixon has been in hell for a year; Hiss for a generation. Nixon, who was close to being a millionaire in his own right, and lived better than any billionaire, is saddled with debts. He faces the onerous chore of writing a book which he hopes will pay his bills and justify all the moves he made while approaching his political doom.

Hiss, who has been making a quiet living as a paper salesman, has been readmitted to the Massachusetts bar after 23 years, has dusted off his shingle and looks forward to a lifestyle approximating that which he knew when he was Justice Felix Frankfurter's law clerk, a State Department official, a prime member of the U.S. delegation at the San Francisco UN conference, and esteemed president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Presumably, Hiss will also make a comeback in another sensitive field: he'll be readmitted to Who's Who.

Their intermingled tragedies were snarled by one of the shortest but most menacing words in the language: if.

If Hiss, prototype of the successful Harvard-bred attorney, had not smirked a mite when Congressman Nixon, the fiery conservative, mentioned proudly that he was a product of good old Whittier College, Nixon possibly would have agreed with other members of the Un-American Activities Committee to give the distinguished witness a Congressional apology for bothering to question him on charges made by ex-Communist Whittaker Chambers. Instead, young Nixon went over the Hiss text with a sharp eye, concluded that Hiss was afraid of perjuring himself because he never answered the questions with a direct yes or no... and Dick took the first of his thousand steps toward the Presidency.

If Nixon had burned those damning tapes, former Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski said recently, he'd still be in the White House.

If Hiss had been able to spring loose the "Pumpkin Papers" he might have been restored to the bar years ago.

If Bob Haldeman and John Ehrlichman had not looked at John Dean and laughed, as they left Nixon's office and found the young counselor cooling his heels in a waiting room, Dean might not have blown his whistle or his stack. Dean decided he was the butt of some "in" joke shared only by the President and his two top aides.

And while we're on the ifs, if jaunty Jawaharlal Nehru were alive and in power today, his first act of office would be to add one more to the thousands of Indian political prisoners now in the stifling clinks of New Delhi.

His daughter.

Might as well finish this with an if. A big if.

If the wind had not unexpectedly changed on the morning of Aug. 9, 1945, over a city named Kokura, on Japan's island of Kyushu, we'd be observing

Oil Price Hike Seen

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Economic and monetary experts from oil-producing countries are likely to recommend higher oil prices in a session that starts Aug. 18. However, a few industry sources predict only a token increase.

The average price of oil sold by the 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — OPEC — is $10.46 per barrel and remains effective until Sept. 30 this year.

The "price and indexing group" of OPEC experts is expected to compare the latest figures on inflation in Western industrialized countries and assess the recent upward trend of the U.S. dollar, whose dwindling international value earlier prompted clamors for stiff price boosts to offset losses in the exporters' revenue, which is calculated in dollars.

That group's findings will then be considered in a final review meeting of OPEC's economic commission, which is empowered to submit recommendations to the full ministerial conference, which convenes here Sept. 24 to set new prices effective Oct. 1.

Encephalitis Deaths Rise

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi health officials say 19 persons have died from the St. Louis strain of encephalitis and that two horses have died from a different strain of the disease.

Dr. Harvey F. McCrory, the state veterinarian, said Tuesday that two horses in George County in Southeast Mississippi had died of eastern equine encephalitis, or sleeping sickness.

"It is primarily found in horses but can be transmitted to man through mosquitoes. This is not unusual; we have a few cases of it in south Mississippi every year," he said.

The human deaths have come from the St. Louis strain, not common in Mississippi. The disease attacks elderly persons almost exclusively and affects the brain and nervous system. There is no known cure.

The state Board of Health said a total of 156 cases, in 30 of the state's 32 counties, have been reported since June 24. Most have been in the Greenville area, where 79 cases and 13 deaths have been reported.

the 30th anniversary of numb mourning.

That was the morning on which Kokura, a dish-shaped town of 250,000, was scheduled to be the target for America's second atomic bomb. This plutonium monster was expected to wreak more havoc, kill more people, than the Hiroshima uranium bomb of August 6 — the beginning of the end of the costliest war in history.

Kokura was chosen for a chilling reason: it's shape was more important to U.S. planners than the strategic importance of its meager war plants. Our atomic people had concluded that if the bomb was fused so that it did not detonate until it had fallen below the height of the hills surrounding the city, the enormous blast, heat and radiation would be contained, concentrated and compressed by the hills, and there was some bleak expectation that all quarter of a million inhabitants would become its victims.

An advance, weather-sniffing B-29, flying over Kokura just one hour before the scheduled drop, reported visibility perfect at 30,000 feet. (Because of the cost and scarcity of the bombs, bomb-carrying crews had been instructed to ignore their Norden bombsights and only bomb visibly.)

But in the hour that followed the clear weather report, the wind magically changed. It swept a thick cover of smoke from a previously fire-bombed nearby town over Kokura and it sat there on the doomed city as steady as a dome. The bomb-laden B-29 made bomb-runs over Kokura for 59 minutes, then, fearing a fuel shortage, decided to hit the secondary target — Nagasaki.

A week or two later our inspection team assigned to Kokura was stunned to learn that by complete coincidence the Japanese had moved their American POWs into Kokura, including survivors of the Bataan Death March of years before, only a short time before its super secret selection for annihilation.

The bomb would have incinerated the men in the last hours of their long and bitter ordeal... if that wind had not changed.

Dear Editor:

Recently you featured an article concerning the Pickaway County Animal Shelter and their service to this area. I was most interested in this item, because since moving to Circleville, we have been very aware of the overpopulation of dogs in particular.

I love animals, but feel when you accept the responsibility of owning one, you owe it to that animal to care for it properly. This includes up-to-date immunization and medical care, adequate nutrition, shelter and confinement for your pet so that he has plenty of room to exercise, spaying of females and identification which means not only buying a tag, but placing it on the animal. All of these show love, concern and give your pet a feeling of security which every animal deserves.

If you can not provide for a pet, do not acquire one. You see, I just returned from the Animal Shelter, where I saw numerous dogs that had been either dropped off unwanted or allowed to run loose without identification and were picked up by the Dog Warden. Needless to say it was not a pleasant sight.

One dog had been turned loose this morning on the Shelter grounds, by someone who wanted to be rid of him. He was so frightened that one of the proprietors had not been able to get close enough to him to confine him. How sad that animals have only humans to depend on to meet their needs.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, August 14, the 226th day of 1975. There are 139 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, President Harry Truman announced Japan's unconditional surrender. It was the end of World War II.

On this date: In 1935, Congress passed the Social Security Act.

In 1941, during the World War II, it was disclosed that President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill had met at sea and signed the Atlantic Charter.

In 1947, the United States canceled about $1 billion in debts owed by Italy.

Ten years ago: The 164-year-old Brooklyn Navy Yard in New York, launched its last ship, the amphibious transport, Duluth, before being closed down.

Five years ago: The Vatican and Yugoslavia resumed full diplomatic relations after an 18-year break between the Holy See and the Communist state.

One year ago: Greece withdrew her troops from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization after a breakdown of Geneva peace talks and new fighting on Byrrus.

Today's birthday: Circus impresario John Ringling North is 72.

Thought for today: Soldiers usually win the battles, and generals get the credit for them — Napoleon Bonaparte, 1769-1821.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, 100 barrels of powder were removed from the magazine on the British colony of Bermuda and loaded on an unknown ship or ships — apparently bound for Revolutionary forces in America.

Lockbourne Air Force Base open house attracted more than 50,000 persons with World War I Air Ace and World War II hero Eddie Rickenbacker reviewing the base personnel.

A Lockbourne based B-17 crashed and exploded on the Anna B. Ruhley Farm in Madison Twp. Plane occupants were not injured having bailed out when a fire was discovered in the bomb bay section of the large aircraft which was on a routine training flight.

A home talent show was staged between feature pictures at the Clifton Theatre. Kiwanis Club benefitted from the Mrs. Leon Van Vliet directed show featuring tap dancing, a boy's quartet and piano solos.

An appeal was made by the Jaycees to the people of Pickaway County to "save the crop." A card was printed in The Herald through which men, women, boys and girls could volunteer their services for emergency canning factory work. The local factories were hard pressed for employees and a bumper crop of sweet corn was imminent. In addition, through the U.S. Employment Service, Circleville and the county were bombed from the air with pamphlets in an appeal for persons to fill posts in the canneries.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have had a few attacks of phlebitis. I stand on my feet all day. I think that's the cause of it. Now, I've been told that I must give up tobacco. If I get more rest, do you think this will be necessary?

Mr. H. G., Calif.

Dear Mr. G.: If you have been told that tobacco is responsible for your phlebitis you'd better believe it.

Tobacco is one of the common causes of one of the special types of phlebitis known as "migratory" phlebitis. The name originated because it travels from vein to vein.

Some people are particularly sensitive to tobacco and develop Buerger's disease, which involves both the arteries and the veins.

It is true that injury in some occupations may be responsible for phlebitis. Infections, too, may cause this potentially troublesome condition.

When phlebitis is present and neglected, clots may form within the vein and become a serious threat to health. A small piece of clot, or "thrombus," can be dislodged and travel in the blood stream.

These clots can find their way to the lung or to the brain and cause serious complications. People who are sensitive or allergic to tobacco cannot compromise in their decision about tobacco. ALL tobacco must be permanently eliminated. It is even advised that tobacco-sensitive people stay out of smoke-filled rooms. It is well known that a certain amount of toxic substances can be inhaled from other people's smoke.

Do you know anything about a technique for removing wrinkles of the face by chemical peeling?

Mrs. E. L., Penn.

Dear Mrs. L.: Yes, I do. I know enough about it to warn you not to become involved in this hazardous technique.

A number of people without any special talents or medical training have tried to use the chemical "phenol" to produce peeling of the skin in order to eradicate wrinkles.

So dangerous is this procedure that legislation all over the country has barred these people from this practice.

There is only one safe way to remove wrinkles and this is by the surgical approach used by plastic surgeons.

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Alcoholism is inflationary. Seldom do you hear the disease discussed in this context, but a realization of its enormous costs is making business take a new look at the problem.

A federal study found that alcohol misuse costs the nation $23.57 billion a year, and that the largest segment of that overall figure, some $9.35 billion, is in the form of lost production.

Absenteeism, wasted time on the job, inefficiency, faulty decision-making, accidents, and rehabilitation costs are the chief ingredients of that $9.35 billion, a sum that inevitably finds its way into the prices of goods.

Dr. Nicholas Pace, corporate medical director of General Motors Corp., told a meeting on alcoholism here last month that a study of its Pontiac operations showed alcoholics averaged no less than 93 days absent a year.

That's only one indicator. The sickness and accident claims, he said, amounted to more than four times those of the "normal" employee. The alcoholic received repeated disciplinary layoffs for drinking on the job.

Even grimmer statistics come from the Labor-Management Committee of the National Council on Alcoholism, which puts the cost to American industry at $12.5 billion a year.

"There are nine million alcoholics in this country," it said in a statement signed by George Meany, AFL-CIO president, and James Roche, GM director and former chairman. "Five million are employed, more than 4 per cent of our work force."

The "rock bottom" average cost of each alcoholic to his employer, the labor leader and the industrialist said, is $2,500 a year. "Alcoholism can strike a board chairman as easily as a blue collar worker," they said.

Nevertheless, companies that in other ways fight to cut costs, to raise productivity, to improve morale, often fail to have programs for alcoholics, despite the obvious human and economic benefits of instituting them.

"A job is a tremendous method of motivating people," Pace said in an interview. "When they recover they work their tail off for the company. The time they used to spend drinking is now donated to the company. They feel responsible."

Despite the belated realization, GM and an increasing number of large companies — Hughes Aircraft, Firestone and Du Pont, to name some of the prominent ones — find it pays to treat rather than fire alcoholics.

"It takes 12 to 14 years to develop this problem, and if you fire the worker you've lost an employee in which you have an investment," said Pace. "We hold the hand out to the alcoholic. We offer treatment."

The GM program, under which 600,000 workers are covered for up to 45 days of treatment, has involved 8,000 heavy drinkers in the past two years with, said Pace, a recovery rate of 80 per cent.

Isn't the recovered alcoholic a marked person, a worker to be watched closely and even with suspicion, a worker not to be trusted with greater responsibilities? "Not if you have a program of education at the top," said Pace.

While industry does seem to be learning that it can cut costs by treating rather than ignoring alcoholism, a puzzling question that must be answered by researchers is this: Do the strains of industrial society contribute to the problem?

Definitive answers seem to escape the scholars, but a legal definition conceivably could emerge from a suit brought by a former Ford Motor Co. executive who contends he became an alcoholic because of job demands.

The executive, John Brenna, filed a $1.3 million suit for compensation he said he would have received if he hadn't been forced into premature retirement. His drinking was job-related, he said.

Regardless of the outcome of that suit, it will probably focus attention on the problem and maybe contribute to the growing belief that it pays to treat the alcoholic, if only to protect the company's investment, if only to keep costs down.

Lobby Did Its Job

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Sam Oakland, Portland State University English instructor, whose self-proclaimed crusade to reduce automobile usage became a 43,405 member bicycle lobby, has called it quits.

Oakland, who never charged the membership any fees and paid for running the lobby out of his own pocket, decided he has had enough despite numerous successes. He was instrumental in getting bicycle paths built along Oregon highways, and this and his other work on behalf of the environment won him fame.

Oakland worked on his project for six years and is happy with what he did achieve during that time.

"We take this action now," Oakland said, "because we feel that general awareness in America of alternate means of transportation is sufficiently high to allow us to retreat from the public battle."

Weather Forecasts Simplified

As the months advance, seasons will also change. As the seasons change, so will the weather.

In the forefront during this period will be the meteorologists, better known as the weatherman.

Since there are so many weather forecasters and different forecasts, we offer a simple glossary of weather terms to help you understand what is meant:

Hot and humid: Beer and underwear weather.

Becoming partly cloudy: Anything from wispy clouds to zero visibility.

Scattered showers: Get out the boats.

Thirty per cent chance of rain: Three guys think it'll rain, and seven don't.

Slightly cooler: Maybe one degree, maybe overcoat time.

Fog in low-lying areas: Up to 20,000 feet.

Snow flurries: Tire chains and hip boots needed.

Locally heavy rains: See scattered showers.

Unsettled: We don't know what it's going to do.

Mostly sunny and warm: Mostly cloudy and cool.

Light frost expected: Zero by morning.

Advanced weather instruments: A wetted finger and an open window.

Oil Price Hike Seen

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Economic and monetary experts from oil-producing countries are likely to recommend higher oil prices in a session that starts Aug. 18. However, a few industry sources predict only a token increase.

The average price of oil sold by the 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — OPEC — is $10.46 per barrel and remains effective until Sept. 30 this year.

The "price and indexing group" of OPEC experts is expected to compare the latest figures on inflation in Western industrialized countries and assess the recent upward trend of the U.S. dollar, whose dwindling international value earlier prompted clamors for stiff price boosts to offset losses in the exporters' revenue, which is calculated in dollars.

That group's findings will then be considered in a final review meeting of OPEC's economic commission, which is empowered to submit recommendations to the full ministerial conference, which convenes here Sept. 24 to set new prices effective Oct. 1.

Encephalitis Deaths Rise

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi health officials say 19 persons have died from the St. Louis strain of encephalitis and that two horses have died from a different strain of the disease.

Dr. Harvey F. McCrory, the state veterinarian, said Tuesday that two horses in George County in Southeast Mississippi had died of eastern equine encephalitis, or sleeping sickness.

"It is primarily found in horses but can be transmitted to man through mosquitoes. This is not unusual; we have a few cases of it in south Mississippi every year," he said.

The human deaths have come from the St. Louis strain, not common in Mississippi. The disease attacks elderly persons almost exclusively and affects the brain and nervous system. There is no known cure.

The state Board of Health said a total of 156 cases, in 30 of the state's 32 counties, have been reported since June 24. Most have been in the Greenville area, where 79 cases and 13 deaths have been reported.

They'll Do It Every Time

the 30th anniversary of numb mourning.

That was the morning on which Kokura, a dish-shaped town of 250,000, was scheduled to be the target for America's second atomic bomb. This plutonium monster was expected to wreak more havoc, kill more people, than the Hiroshima uranium bomb of August 6 — the beginning of the end of the costliest war in history.

Kokura was chosen for a chilling reason: it's shape was more important to U.S. planners than the strategic importance of its meager war plants. Our atomic people had concluded that if the bomb was fused so that it did not detonate until it had fallen below the height of the hills surrounding the city, the enormous blast, heat and radiation would be contained, concentrated and compressed by the hills, and there was some bleak expectation that all quarter of a million inhabitants would become its victims.

An advance, weather-sniffing B-29, flying over Kokura just one hour before the scheduled drop, reported visibility perfect at 30,000 feet. (Because of the cost and scarcity of the bombs, bomb-carrying crews had been instructed to ignore their Norden bombsights and only bomb visibly.)

But in the hour that followed the clear weather report, the wind magically changed. It swept a thick cover of smoke from a previously fire-bombed nearby town over Kokura and it sat there on the doomed city as steady as a dome. The bomb-laden B-29 made bomb-runs over Kokura for 59 minutes, then, fearing a fuel shortage, decided to hit the secondary target — Nagasaki.

A week or two later our inspection team assigned to Kokura was stunned to learn that by complete coincidence the Japanese had moved their American POWs into Kokura, including survivors of the Bataan Death March of years before, only a short time before its super secret selection for annihilation.

The bomb would have incinerated the men in the last hours of their long and bitter ordeal... if that wind had not changed.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor: Recently you featured an article concerning the Pickaway County Animal Shelter and their service to this area. I was most interested in this item, because since moving to Circleville, we have been very aware of the overpopulation of dogs in particular.

I love animals, but feel when you accept the responsibility of owning one, you owe it to that animal to care for it properly. This includes up-to-date immunization and medical care, adequate nutrition, shelter and confinement for your pet so that he has plenty of room to exercise, spaying of females and identification which means not only buying a tag, but placing it on the animal. All of these show love, concern and give your pet a feeling of security which every animal deserves.

If you can not provide for a pet, do not acquire one. You see, I just returned from the Animal Shelter, where I saw numerous dogs that had been either dropped off unwanted or allowed to run loose without identification and were picked up by the Dog Warden. Needless to say it was not a pleasant sight.

One dog had been turned loose this morning on the Shelter grounds, by someone who wanted to be rid of him. He was so frightened that one of the proprietors had not been able to get close enough to him to confine him. How sad that animals have only humans to depend on to meet their needs.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, August 14, the 226th day of 1975. There are 139 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, President Harry Truman announced Japan's unconditional surrender. It was the end of World War II.

On this date: In 1935, Congress passed the Social Security Act.

In 1941, during the World War II, it was disclosed that President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill had met at sea and signed the Atlantic Charter.

In 1947, the United States canceled about $1 billion in debts owed by Italy.

Ten years ago: The 164-year-old Brooklyn Navy Yard in New York, launched its last ship, the amphibious transport, Duluth, before being closed down.

Five years ago: The Vatican and Yugoslavia resumed full diplomatic relations after an 18-year break between the Holy See and the Communist state.

One year ago: Greece withdrew her troops from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization after a breakdown of Geneva peace talks and new fighting on Byrrus.

Today's birthday: Circus impresario John Ringling North is 72.

Thought for today: Soldiers usually win the battles, and generals get the credit for them — Napoleon Bonaparte, 1769-1821.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, 100 barrels of powder were removed from the magazine on the British colony of Bermuda and loaded on an unknown ship or ships — apparently bound for Revolutionary forces in America.

Lockbourne Air Force Base open house attracted more than 50,000 persons with World War I Air Ace and World War II hero Eddie Rickenbacker reviewing the base personnel.

A Lockbourne based B-17 crashed and exploded on the Anna B. Ruhley Farm in Madison Twp. Plane occupants were not injured having bailed out when a fire was discovered in the bomb bay section of the large aircraft which was on a routine training flight.

A home talent show was staged between feature pictures at the Clifton Theatre. Kiwanis Club benefitted from the Mrs. Leon Van Vliet directed show featuring tap dancing, a boy's quartet and piano solos.

An appeal was made by the Jaycees to the people of Pickaway County to "save the crop." A card was printed in The Herald through which men, women, boys and girls could volunteer their services for emergency canning factory work. The local factories were hard pressed for employees and a bumper crop of sweet corn was imminent. In addition, through the U.S. Employment Service, Circleville and the county were bombed from the air with pamphlets in an appeal for persons to fill posts in the canneries.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have had a few attacks of phlebitis. I stand on my feet all day. I think that's the cause of it. Now, I've been told that I must give up tobacco. If I get more rest, do you think this will be necessary?

Mr. H. G., Calif.

Dear Mr. G.:

If you have been told that tobacco is responsible for your phlebitis you'd better believe it.

Tobacco is one of the common causes of one of the special types of phlebitis known as "migratory" phlebitis. The name originated because it travels from vein to vein.

Some people are particularly sensitive to tobacco and develop Buerger's disease, which involves both the arteries and the veins.

It is true that injury in some occupations may be responsible for phlebitis. Infections, too, may cause this potentially troublesome condition.

When phlebitis is present and neglected, clots may form within the vein and become a serious threat to health. A small piece of clot, or "thrombus," can be dislodged and travel in the blood stream.

These clots can find their way to the lung or to the brain and cause serious complications.

People who are sensitive or allergic to tobacco cannot compromise in their decision about tobacco. ALL tobacco must be permanently eliminated.

It is even advised that tobacco-sensitive people stay out of smoke-filled rooms. It is well known that a certain amount of toxic substances can be inhaled from other people's smoke.

Do you know anything about a technique for removing wrinkles of the face by chemical peeling?

Mrs. E. L., Penn.

Dear Mrs. L.:

Yes, I do. I know enough about it to warn you not to become involved in this hazardous technique.

A number of people without any special talents or medical training have tried to use the chemical "phenol" to produce peeling of the skin in order to eradicate wrinkles.

So dangerous is this procedure that legislation all over the country has barred these people from this practice.

There is only one safe way to remove wrinkles and this is by the surgical approach used by plastic surgeons.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Alcoholism is inflationary. Seldom do you hear the disease discussed in this context, but a realization of its enormous costs is making business take a new look at the problem.

A federal study found that alcohol misuse costs the nation $23.57 billion a year, and that the largest segment of that overall figure, some $9.35 billion, is in the form of lost production.

Absenteeism, wasted time on the job, inefficiency, faulty decision-making, accidents, and rehabilitation costs are the chief ingredients of that $9.35 billion, a sum that inevitably finds its way into the prices of goods.

Dr. Nicholas Pace, corporate medical director of General Motors Corp., told a meeting on alcoholism here last month that a study of its Pontiac operations showed alcoholics averaged no less than 93 days absent a year.

That's only one indicator. The sickness and accident claims, he said, amounted to more than four times those of the "normal" employee. The alcoholic received repeated disciplinary layoffs for drinking on the job.

Even grimmer statistics come from the Labor-Management Committee of the National Council on Alcoholism, which puts the cost to American industry at $12.5 billion a year.

"There are nine million alcoholics in this country," it said in a statement signed by George Meany, AFL-CIO president, and James Roche, GM director and former chairman. "Five million are employed, more than 4 per cent of our work force."

The "rock bottom" average cost of each alcoholic to his employer, the labor leader and the industrialist said, is $2,500 a year. "Alcoholism can strike a board chairman as easily as a blue collar worker," they said.

Nevertheless, companies that in other ways fight to cut costs, to raise productivity, to improve morale, often fail to have programs for alcoholics, despite the obvious human and economic benefits of instituting them.

"A job is a tremendous method of motivating people," Pace said in an interview. "When they recover they work their tail off for the company. The time they used to spend drinking is now donated to the company. They feel responsible."

Despite the belated realization, GM and an increasing number of large companies — Hughes Aircraft, Firestone and Du Pont, to name some of the prominent ones — find it pays to treat rather than fire alcoholics.

"It takes 12 to 14 years to develop this problem, and if you fire the worker you've lost an employee in which you have an investment," said Pace. "We hold the hand out to the alcoholic. We offer treatment."

The GM program, under which 600,000 workers are covered for up to 45 days of treatment, has involved 8,000 heavy drinkers in the past two years with, said Pace, a recovery rate of 80 per cent.

Isn't the recovered alcoholic a marked person, a worker to be watched closely and even with suspicion, a worker not to be trusted with greater responsibilities? "Not if you have a program of education at the top," said Pace.

While industry does seem to be learning that it can cut costs by treating rather than ignoring alcoholism, a puzzling question that must be answered by researchers is this: Do the strains of industrial society contribute to the problem?

Definitive answers seem to escape the scholars, but a legal definition conceivably could emerge from a suit brought by a former Ford Motor Co. executive who contends he became an alcoholic because of job demands.

Army Admits Causing Man's Death

NEW YORK (AP) — The daughter of an unwitting victim of the Army's experiments with hallucinogenic drugs says she had been told that he died of an LSD injection administered as medication.

But, she said, Tuesday's announcement of the reason for her father's death was a shock. In a press release, the Army attributed the death of tennis professional Harold Blauer in 1953 not to his treatment as a state mental hospital patient but to the Army's experiment.

"I'm collapsed through the whole experience," said the widowed daughter, Elizabeth Barrett, 35, of Manhattan, who added that three Army officers gave her the news in person.

Blauer is the first known fatality from extensive Army-sponsored tests with mind-affecting drugs, although the suicide of Dr. Frank Olson after the Central Intelligence Agency experimented on him with LSD in 1953 had been disclosed previously.

Two years before his death at the age of 42 on Jan. 8, 1953, he and his wife decided upon a marital separation, Mrs. Barrett said. Her mother went to Mexico and lived there with the younger daughter, who now wishes to avoid publicity. The elder girl, then 13, elected to live with her father.

She said that because of the separation, Blauer became depressed and a friend got him to admit himself to a hospital for treatment. He ended up in the New York State Psychiatric Institute, and the girl went to live with her grandmother.

The Army said that the institute had a 1951 contract that stipulated "studies, experimental investigations and tests to determine the clinical effect of psychochemical agents on the psychiatric behavior of human subjects."

It said that Blauer had experienced either minor or no effects from four previous injections. The Army reported that the fifth injection was fatal.

"The patient died about 2½ hours after receiving an injection of a mescaline derivative," the Army said.

Mrs. Barrett disputes the Army's account, saying her mother had said that her father had been given LSD and that he had had two earlier bad experiences with the drug the doctors were "prescribing."

The daughter said the final injection was given on the day before his scheduled release.

She said her mother had lodged what she believes is a malpractice suit against the state and another suit against her father's life insurance company, to collect double indemnity for accidental death. She said there was a financial settlement, but she didn't know the amount.

Robert Spoor, spokesman for the New York State Mental Hygiene Department, said Blauer died of an allergic reaction, and the Pentagon said his file contained an unsigned memorandum that gave a cardiovascular collapse as the cause. No death certificate has been found, according to the Pentagon.

The Army said Blauer had taken part with an unspecified number of other patients in a series of five tests in a 29-day period involving various mescaline derivatives furnished by the Army.

After his death, the experiment was terminated, the Army said.

Army Admits Causing Man's Death

NEW YORK (AP) — The daughter of an unwitting victim of the Army's experiments with hallucinogenic drugs says she had been told that he died of an LSD injection administered as medication.

But, she said, Tuesday's announcement of the reason for her father's death was a shock. In a press release, the Army attributed the death of tennis professional Harold Blauer in 1953 not to his treatment as a state mental hospital patient but to the Army's experiment.

"I'm collapsed through the whole experience," said the widowed daughter, Elizabeth Barrett, 35, of Manhattan, who added that three Army officers gave her the news in person.

Blauer is the first known fatality from extensive Army-sponsored tests with mind-affecting drugs, although the suicide of Dr. Frank Olson after the Central Intelligence Agency experimented on him with LSD in 1953 had been disclosed previously.

Two years before his death at the age of 42 on Jan. 8, 1953, he and his wife decided upon a marital separation, Mrs. Barrett said. Her mother went to Mexico and lived there with the younger daughter, who now wishes to avoid publicity. The elder girl, then 13, elected to live with her father.

She said that because of the separation, Blauer became depressed and a friend got him to admit himself to a hospital for treatment. He ended up in the New York State Psychiatric Institute, and the girl went to live with her grandmother.

The Army said that the institute had a 1951 contract that stipulated "studies, experimental investigations and tests to determine the clinical effect of psychochemical agents on the psychiatric behavior of human subjects."

It said that Blauer had experienced either minor or no effects from four previous injections. The Army reported that the fifth injection was fatal.

"The patient died about 2½ hours after receiving an injection of a mescaline derivative," the Army said. Mrs. Barrett disputes the Army's account, saying her mother had said that her father had been given LSD and that he had had two earlier bad experiences with the drug the doctors were "prescribing."

The daughter said the final injection was given on the day before his scheduled release.

She said her mother had lodged what she believes is a malpractice suit against the state and another suit against her father's life insurance company, to collect double indemnity for accidental death. She said there was a financial settlement, but she didn't know the amount.

Robert Spoor, spokesman for the New York State Mental Hygiene Department, said Blauer died of an allergic reaction, and the Pentagon said his file contained an unsigned memorandum that gave a cardiovascular collapse as the cause. No death certificate has been found, according to the Pentagon.

The Army said Blauer had taken part with an unspecified number of other patients in a series of five tests in a 29-day period involving various mescaline derivatives furnished by the Army.

After his death, the experiment was terminated, the Army said.

Nigeria Being Choked By New Prosperity

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — "This nation is being strangled by its own prosperity. It's like a newly wealthy man switching from a meager diet to a rich one. His arteries start clogging up and he is in danger of suffering heart failure."

The African diplomat was bemoaning the endless frustrations and complications of life in the capital city of Black Africa's richest and most populous nation.

As he talked, a stream of cars inched its way along the road outside. In the sea lanes leading to Lagos, Nigeria's most important port, more than 280 ships, laden with commodities essential for Nigeria's existence and growth, queued for berths.

In the crowded, vibrant streets of the city, a new breed of Nigerian entrepreneur who has managed to cash in on the nation's massive oil wealth rubs shoulders with peanut vendors and impoverished inhabitants of shanty towns who are finding it daily more difficult to make ends meet as the cost of living soars.

There are constant shortages of milk, gasoline, beer and other items of daily life here despite the fact that last year Nigeria earned $8.8 billion dollars from oil.

Lagos is not entirely representative of life in the rest of the country. But it is here that the dreams, aspirations and fears of the nation crystallize. And over the past few months many residents of the capital have been predicting that something had to give.

Late last month their forecasts came true. As he attended the organization of African Unity summit in Uganda, Gen. Yakubu Gowon was ousted as Nigerian head of state. After nine years of uninterrupted power he was toppled by a handful of dissatisfied brigadiers and colonels who no longer felt he had the authority or capacity to rule.

The new military rulers, headed by 38-year-old Brig. Murtala Muhammed, charged that he had become isolated from the people and was allowing the direction of state affairs to drift to such an extent that the nation's 65-70 million people were again threatened by "bloodshed and chaos."

Nigeria is a conglomeration of some 250 often quarrelsome tribal groupings, divided by religion and culture.

The arid, windswept north is predominantly Moslem, but Christians predominate in the tropical south. Other Nigerians follow their traditional religious customs.

It was Gowon's repeatedly stated desire to weld them irrevocably into one nation. Even his critics agree that he laid the foundations.

Part of the key to his success was Nigerian oil. Fueled by international increases in oil prices, Nigerian coffers were flooded by foreign exchange. But this year falling demand for oil worldwide is expected to cut Nigerian revenues by some $2 billion.

It was the spurt in oil revenues that earlier this year allowed Gowon to award massive pay hikes to civil servants and also launch an ambitious $48 billion, five-year development program. It was designed to create an industrial revolution, boost stagnant agriculture toward self-sufficient opportunities for all Nigerians.

But the pay increases, ranging from 30 to 130 per cent, sparked a series of strikes for similar awards in the private sector, which were met under government pressure.

Yet at least 90 per cent of the nation, reliant on a hand-to-mouth existence from the land, derived little benefit.

As the minority went on a spending spree, inflation soared from 13 to more than 30 per cent.

In addition, as newspapers here have been pointing out in the past week, disillusionment with Gowon's government was further accentuated by a string of broken promises.

These included undertakings to return Nigeria to civilian rule next year, to replace or reshuffle Nigeria's governors then under fire for corruption, and to create new states to make the existing 12 more representative of local aspirations.

Most Nigerians welcomed Gowon's removal. They are biding their time, however, before embracing the new rulers.

One Nigerian summed up the situation: "We are in the position of a man sitting back with his arms folded. We are awaiting events. We very much want the best for our country. We hope the new military rulers will not let us down. We hope they will overcome the crisis of rising expectations and unfulfilled desires."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Blood Banks A Vital Investment

DEAR ABBY: I was pleased when you urged your readers to have their blood pressure checked. I wish you'd have added, "And one way to have it checked absolutely free is to become a blood donor. It's quick and painless, and should you have a disease that shows in your blood sample, you are promptly notified."

I donate blood twice a year. And I feel that I'm getting much more than I give.

BLOOD DONOR

DEAR DONOR: God love you. And readers, if you are between 17 and 65, you, too, can become a donor. The only bank in the world that would rather have your blood than your money is the Red Cross Blood Bank!

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. Please don't give me a "try-it, you'll like it" answer because that's not the kind of help I need.

I will be in the eighth grade next year. (I'm a male.) I'll be going to a public school. The law in our state (Calif.) says that every able-bodied student must take physical education, and that's where my problem comes in.

I HATE team sports, and there is no way to get out of baseball, football, etc., in P.E. Don't get me wrong: I like swimming and things like that. I'm not fat, and I DO exercise regularly so I am in good shape. But I detest sports that will make me part of a team.

I don't want a lecture. I want to know how I can get out of team sports.

HATES SPORTS

DEAR HATES: Unless you can persuade your P.E. teacher to allow you to substitute swimming or something you like for baseball, football and sports you dislike, I'm afraid you're stuck. (Look at it this way: Doing something whether you like it or not is a good preparation for life. Don't fight it.)

DEAR ABBY: I was engaged, and the wedding date was set 16 months ago. As the date drew near, I panicked. For some strange reason, marriage frightened me. I was sure I was in love with my fiancé, but I just couldn't go through with the wedding.

I had some showers and received some beautiful and expensive shower gifts.

We decided to postpone the wedding. (Our wedding invitations were addressed-but never mailed.)

Now the marriage appears unlikely, although my fiancé says that he will wait for me as long as I want him to.

The shower gifts are still in their original boxes, and it's doubtful that the people who sent them can take them back now. Also, those I've spoken to said, "Keep it. I can't use it."

Abby, please tell me what I should do at this late date about those shower gifts. I may marry him after all. And I may not.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Return the shower gifts. And should you marry the man, decline all offers of another shower.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "J" IN COLUMBUS, NEB.: When a man lists all the reasons why he thinks marriage is a "bad deal", beginning with, "I don't know of one good marriage," depend upon it, dear, he is subtly telling you that he has no intentions of marrying YOU! Say goodbye while you're still young and desirable.

Nigeria Being Choked By New Prosperity

Lagos, Nigeria (AP) — "This nation is being strangled by its own prosperity. It's like a newly wealthy man switching from a meager diet to a rich one. His arteries start clogging up and he is in danger of suffering heart failure."

The African diplomat was bemoaning the endless frustrations and complications of life in the capital city of Black Africa's richest and most populous nation.

As he talked, a stream of cars inched its way along the road outside. In the sea lanes leading to Lagos, Nigeria's most important port, more than 280 ships, laden with commodities essential for Nigeria's existence and growth, queued for berths.

In the crowded, vibrant streets of the city, a new breed of Nigerian entrepreneur who has managed to cash in on the nation's massive oil wealth rubs shoulders with peanut vendors and impoverished inhabitants of shanty towns who are finding it daily more difficult to make ends meet as the cost of living soars.

There are constant shortages of milk, gasoline, beer and other items of daily life here despite the fact that last year Nigeria earned $8.8 billion dollars from oil.

Lagos is not entirely representative of life in the rest of the country. But it is here that the dreams, aspirations and fears of the nation crystallize. And over the past few months many residents of the capital have been predicting that something had to give.

Late last month their forecasts came true. As he attended the organization of African Unity summit in Uganda, Gen. Yakubu Gowon was ousted as Nigerian head of state. After nine years of uninterrupted power he was toppled by a handful of dissatisfied brigadiers and colonels who no longer felt he had the authority or capacity to rule.

Fuel Adjustment Clause Explained

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Columbia Gas Co. will appear before the legislature's joint committee on energy next week to explain its use of the fuel adjustment clause, the committee's chairman said Wednesday.

Rep. Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Youngstown, made the announcement after the committee met Wednesday with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

The session with the PUCO was intended to clarify the position of the commission in implementing the fuel adjustment clause, Carney said.

He said the committee was told that the PUCO has little authority over the

Turbulence Injures 2

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Two persons were injured Wednesday night when a Trans World Airways flight ran into turbulence between St. Louis, Mo., and Cincinnati, Ohio, according to Greater Cincinnati Airport officials.

Victor Rabon, 59, of Tulsa, Okla., was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington, Ky., with a leg injury. He was a passenger.

Flight attendant Diana Moss, 26, of Hermosa Beach, Calif., was treated for a head injury and released, the hospital said.

The airport tower said the airline jet experienced clear air turbulence at 27,000 feet over Bloomington, Ill.

Senator Pushes Food Bank Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wealthy nations should establish food banks to narrow the economic gap between rich and poor countries, U. S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said Wednesday.

The days of peaceful stability are numbered unless the gap can be narrowed, he said. McGee spoke at the American Agricultural Economics Association at Ohio State University.

McGee, chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee, suggested that food banks be established to level the differences between the haves and have-nots.

McGee said America in the past has dumped its food surpluses on poor countries. He suggested that all wealthy nations participate in a world reserve food market.

Turbulence Injures 2

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Two persons were injured Wednesday night when a Trans World Airways flight ran into turbulence between St. Louis, Mo., and Cincinnati, Ohio, according to Greater Cincinnati Airport officials.

Victor Rabon, 59, of Tulsa, Okla., was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington, Ky., with a leg injury. He was a passenger.

Flight attendant Diana Moss, 26, of Hermosa Beach, Calif., was treated for a head injury and released, the hospital said.

The airport tower said the airline jet experienced clear air turbulence at 27,000 feet over Bloomington, Ill.

Senator Pushes Food Bank Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wealthy nations should establish food banks to narrow the economic gap between rich and poor countries, U. S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said Wednesday.

The days of peaceful stability are numbered unless the gap can be narrowed, he said. McGee spoke at the American Agricultural Economics Association at Ohio State University.

McGee, chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee, suggested that food banks be established to level the differences between the haves and have-nots.

McGee said America in the past has dumped its food surpluses on poor countries. He suggested that all wealthy nations participate in a world reserve food market.

Old Missile Sites Have Little Use

EGYPT, Wash. (AP) — Ed McCaffery owns a dinosaur of the missile age.

McCaffery, a wheat farmer, owns an Atlas missile site, one of nine built in eastern Washington in the early 1960s and abandoned almost before the paint had dried.

The sites were built for $150 million in an effort to help convince the Soviet Union not to fight a nuclear war. McCaffery's 22-acre area cost between $13 million and $20 million to build and equip.

He bought it in 1967 for just under $5,700.

"I don't know what to do with it," said McCaffery. "My idea is to turn it into a casino."

The nine sites are like small, underground cities, each capable of withstanding anything other than a direct nuclear hit. They were built as part of the Atlas network and surrounded Fairchild Air Force Base just west of Spokane.

Each site was in operation 24 hours a day, with a crew of 12 always ready to fire the device. The Atlas rocket, fueled by liquid oxygen and a chemical like kerosene, lay on its side inside an enormous, buried "coffin." Around it, also underground, were the steel-encased firing control centers and living quarters.

None of the rockets was fired and the Atlas system was superseded by new kinds of missiles. In 1965, the 567th Strategic Missile Squadron was deactivated and the missiles and tracking equipment were removed.

The General Services Administration sold the sites two years later.

The buyers included farmers seeking to reclaim land, and companies hoping for the bargain of a lifetime.

Power has been turned off at most sites. Cows graze, grasshoppers bound through tall grass and debris is everywhere.

McCaffery finds that sheep like to graze inside his Atlas base. He also stores an antique truck inside the base and his combine sits where a missile once lay.

McCaffery got a Quonset hut with his purchase and provides free storage for boats and campers of his neighbors. But primarily the place is wasted, he said.

Medic Testifies In KSU Trial

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The wound received by one of 13 victims of the 1970 Kent State University shootings was not caused by a military bullet, a federal jury was told Wednesday.

Jurors heard that testimony after learning one of their members had been dismissed for violating the judge's warning not to discuss the case.

Dr. Norman Rich said via videotape that it appeared to him the bullet that struck Donald S. MacKenzie in the back of the neck and exited through his left cheek came from a .22-38 caliber weapon.

The doctor said he based his opinion on more than 10 years of study of military gunshot wounds and a year of service in Vietnam. Rich, a surgeon at Walter Reed Medical Center in Washington, D.C., said that if the shot had come from a .30-caliber M1 rifle or .45-caliber pistol, which Ohio National Guardsmen were carrying, not much would be left of MacKenzie's cheek.

Under cross-examination, Rich said he made his judgment after reviewing photographs of the wounds and reading the report of the doctor who operated on MacKenzie. Rich said he would have been more comfortable with his determination if he had been able to examine MacKenzie himself.

Four students were killed and eight besides MacKenzie wounded May 4, 1970, as guardsmen tried to break up a campus antiwar demonstration. The victims seek $46 million from present or former guardsmen and state officials connected with the incident.

The defense learned they lost one sure vote on the panel deciding the claims with dismissal of juror Douglas J. Watts of Mogadore.

"From the evidence I've heard," Watts said after being excused, "it sounds wrong to be trying to sue the people we have in government who are trying to do what's right. In my own heart, I feel they were only doing a job and that things happened...."

Watts said he had discussed the case repeatedly with coworkers at the Ford Motor Co. plant where he is a foreman of an inventory crew and that someone could have overheard him.

U.S. District Judge Don J. Young questioned Watts privately after receiving a complaint from plaintiffs' lawyers. "And of course I admitted at this stage that I am prejudiced, and so the judge let me go," Watts said.

Arson Trial Postponed

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Pretrial motions have caused postponement of the trial of the Rev. David N. Bubar on state charges in the Shelton plant bombing.

The trial, scheduled to begin today, was delayed to allow the state's attorney two weeks to respond to a motion filed on Bubar's behalf for dismissal of the charges.

Bubar, an ordained Baptist minister from Memphis, Tenn., is charged with conspiracy counts to commit arson, burglary and kidnapping involved in the March 1 dynamiting of a $10 million plant of the Sponge Rubber Products Co.

He is among 10 men indicted by a federal grand jury in the arson case. Nine of them also face state charges.

Bubar's motion claims there is no legal basis for the three state counts because there was only one alleged conspiracy, to destroy the building. It also claims the burglary charge is improper because Bubar had ties with Sponge Rubber Products, said his attorney, Richard T. Meehan of Bridgeport.

Bubar is free on $100,000 bond.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Shirely Craycraft, 62, a janitor at a discount store, was killed early Wednesday, apparently by burglars, police said. They found merchandise piled up at the back of the store when they answered a burglar alarm.

Officers said Craycraft had apparently been shot although he suffered wounds from other sources.

Woman Takes Male Role In 'Tecumseh'

The first few volleys have been fired in the Battle of Thames. Tecumseh and his followers fall back for a decisive attack. Then suddenly from the forest a young American soldier leads a cavalry charge down upon the Indian encampment.

The scene above didn't happen two hundred years ago. It happens this summer at the outdoor drama "Tecumseh!" near Chillicothe, Ohio, and the daring young cavalryman is not a man at all. She is actually a 16-year-old honey blonde named Katie Cuba.

"I started riding at eight years old," says 5'7" Katie, "My brother Kevin decided that we would both learn to ride one day . . . eight years later, I'm still riding." Kevin and Katie serve jointly as equestrians for the Bicentennial drama, playing nightly except Sunday, at 8:45 p.m., through August 30.

Katie, a native of Pleasantville, N.Y., was signed for the Drama in February during auditions in Manhattan. "We answered an ad in a theatre journal asking for actors and horsemen. Neither of us could imagine why a play would need horsemen," she catches her breath and cuts her eyes over to the ten horses in her care," but believe me, we found out."

Katie is one of five women who have taken over traditionally male roles in the drama. All five play the roles of females in act I before changing into uniform for the drama's second act.

It has been a record summer for "Tecumseh!" according to the Drama's producer, W. L. Mundell. Audiences from five continents have flocked to see the drama. For information or reservations call Toll Free in Ohio 800-282-2015.

Sneek-A-Peek

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Looking for adventure? At your house looking in hidden corners may only turn up mashed bugs but children in books always seem to find lost valuables or clues to missing treasures.

Brad visits his aunt expecting to have a dull time recovering from an illness. But, in "The Cat and Mrs. Cary," he finds a talking cat and a friendly girl who sees a ghost right in his aunt's house. For 5th grades.

Spinner gets into real danger in the mountain wilderness on her vacation. "Hook a Fish, Catch a Mountain" just might turn girls on to why the outdoors holds so much fascination for boys.

"Secret in the Stalakum Wild" holds surprises of a different nature for young Morann. While her family pursues serious anthropological studies she comes face to face with the spirits of an Indian tribe. Discoveries follow more discoveries and the true beauty of the beautiful Washington mountain range takes on new meaning. For good readers.

At first Melinda is content with picnics and hikes at her vacation cottage. But, in "Mountain Holiday" she finds a tumbledown cabin, a new friend and a long lost relative. Easy.

Disappointed at having to move to the country from New York City, the Melendy kids hope their old country house at least is full of skeletons and treasures. In "The Four-Story Mistake" what they find is a friendly woods, new friends and a rugged outdoor life that turns their life around. For good readers.

Gone-Away is the distant home of another family who find fun all around them in "Return to Gone-Away." As boys love to do they scare themselves to death in a wild night's stay in a deserted house. Family fun at its best.

Rupert and his gang build treehouses and practice ball every day. "Rupert Piper and Megan the Valuable Girl" recaptures summer and lazy days when active boys think of plenty of things to do. It's mostly for fun, although there are a few anxious moments looking for lost boys and keeping their tree house from caving in.

And, to really give children ideas there are the new Radlauer sports books: "Dragstrip Challenge," "Minibike Challenge" and Horse Show Challenge." All have color photographs of children competing, working and having a great time doing what active kids like to do best.

Help your own kids find adventure this summer. Give them a glimpse into another world; it's an inexpensive trip.

Lewis and Clark reached the Oregon coast on Nov. 7, 1805.

Woman Takes Male Role In 'Tecumseh'

The first few volleys have been fired in the Battle of Thames. Tecumseh and his followers fall back for a decisive attack. Then suddenly from the forest a young American soldier leads a cavalry charge down upon the Indian encampment.

The scene above didn't happen two hundred years ago. It happens this summer at the outdoor drama "Tecumseh!" near Chillicothe, Ohio, and the daring young cavalryman is not a man at all. She is actually a 16-year-old honey blonde named Katie Cuba.

"I started riding at eight years old," says 5'7" Katie. "My brother Kevin decided that we would both learn to ride one day . . . eight years later, I'm still riding." Kevin and Katie serve jointly as equestrians for the Bicentennial drama, playing nightly except Sunday, at 8:45 p.m., through August 30.

Katie, a native of Pleasantville, N.Y., was signed for the Drama in February during auditions in Manhattan. "We answered an ad in a theatre journal asking for actors and horsemen. Neither of us could imagine why a play would need horsemen," she catches her breath and cuts her eyes over to the ten horses in her care, "but believe me, we found out."

Katie is one of five women who have taken over traditionally male roles in the drama. All five play the roles of females in act I before changing into uniform for the drama's second act.

It has been a record summer for "Tecumseh!" according to the Drama's producer, W. L. Mundell. Audiences from five continents have flocked to see the drama. For information or reservations call Toll Free in Ohio 800-282-2015.

Sneek-A-Peek

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Looking for adventure? At your house looking in hidden corners may only turn up mashed bugs but children in books always seem to find lost valuables or clues to missing treasures.

Brad visits his aunt expecting to have a dull time recovering from an illness. But, in "The Cat and Mrs. Cary," he finds a talking cat and a friendly girl who sees a ghost right in his aunt's house. For 5th grades.

Spinner gets into real danger in the mountain wilderness on her vacation. "Hook a Fish, Catch a Mountain" just might turn girls on to why the outdoors holds so much fascination for boys.

"Secret in the Stalakum Wild" holds surprises of a different nature for young Morann. While her family pursues serious anthropological studies she comes face to face with the spirits of an Indian tribe. Discoveries follow more discoveries and the true beauty of the beautiful Washington mountain range takes on new meaning. For good readers.

At first Melinda is content with picnics and hikes at her vacation cottage. But, in "Mountain Holiday" she finds a tumbledown cabin, a new friend and a long lost relative. Easy.

Disappointed at having to move to the country from New York City, the Melendy kids hope their old country house at least is full of skeletons and treasurers. In "The Four-Story Mistake" what they find is a friendly woods, new friends and a rugged outdoor life that turns their life around. For good readers.

Gone-Away is the distant home of another family who find fun all around them in "Return to Gone-Away." As boys love to do they scare themselves to death in a wild night's stay in a deserted house. Family fun at its best.

Rupert and his gang build treehouses and practice ball every day. "Rupert Piper and Megan the Valuable Girl" recaptures summer and lazy days when active boys think of plenty of things to do. It's mostly for fun, although there are a few anxious moments looking for lost boys and keeping their tree house from caving in.

And, to really give children ideas there are the new Radlauer sports books: "Dragstrip Challenge," "Minibike Challenge" and Horse Show Challenge." All have color photographs of children competing, working and having a great time doing what active kids like to do best.

Help your own kids find adventure this summer. Give them a glimpse into another world; it's an inexpensive trip.

Phils Drop 5-4 Game To L. A.

By HOWARD SMITH

AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies are in a tailspin and the natives are getting restless.

The Phils, given their chance to take over the National League East lead from the stumbling Pittsburgh Pirates, have declined the offer. Pittsburgh has lost seven of its last eight. The Phils have dropped five of their last seven.

And now they're calling for Manager Danny Ozark's head in the City of Brotherly Love.

"How good are the 1975 Phillies? How far can they go?" asks the Philadelphia Inquirer. "We may never know if ... Ozark is allowed to spend the last month and a half of the season on the bench."

The Philadelphia Bulletin counters that Ozark isn't doing a totally miserable job ... he just lacks charisma.

The Phils dropped a 5-4 decision to Los Angeles Wednesday night and Ozark was asked about his critics.

"It doesn't affect me," said the 51-year-old skipper. "That's the perils of the job. I don't think it will affect my team. It shouldn't."

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta edged Pittsburgh 4-3, St. Louis beat Houston 4-3 in 11 innings, San Francisco edged Montreal 4-3 in 12 innings and San Diego defeated New York 8-5.

The Phils had to wait 2 hours, 20 minutes for the rain to stop before losing their fourth straight. The long delay came in the bottom of the second and the Dodgers jumped on Steve Carlton, 11-9, for four runs in the top of the third, three of them on a home run by Steve Garvey.

Braves 4, Pirates 3

Mile Lu knocked in the winning run for Atlanta with a bad-hop single in the seventh off Dave Giusti. Dusty Baker and Ralph Garr also had RBIsingles for the Braves and Tom House, 5-5, got the victory with three innings of scoreless relief.

Cardinals 4, Astros 3

Luis Melendez beat out an infield hit with the bases loaded in the 11th inning to knock in the winning run for St. Louis. Ken Reitz had a two-run single for the third-place Cardinals who closed to within 4½ games of first in the NL East. Doug Rader sent it into overtime with a two-run homer for Houston.

Giants 4, Expos 3

Willie Montanez doubled home the winning run in the 12th for San Francisco. The Giants broke a 0-0 tie in the 11th with three runs, two on a homer by Gary Matthews, before Montreal tied it in its half of the inning with the help of Pete Mackanin's two-run triple. Montreal starter Dan Warthen held the Giants to just one hit through the first 10 innings.

Padres 8, Mets 5

Bobby Tolan's three-run homer in the eighth off reliever Rick Baldwin capped a five-run inning to sink the Mets and snap San Diego's five-game losing streak. Mike Ivie also homered for the Padres and Dave Winfield had a pair of run-scoring singles. Jerry Grote and Rusty Staub drove in two runs apiece for New York.

Grand Am Readied At Vandalia

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—An enlarged Grand American, already the largest trapshoot in the world, opens its official tournament Monday on the Amateur Trapshooting Association grounds here.

"All indicators are that participation in this year's tournament will be up about five per cent," said Ron Mosier, general manager.

Under the presidency of R.H. "Nilly" Sailer of Oklahoma City, the ATA grounds this year are bigger than ever before with a total of 16 traps added.

Mosier explained that eight of the traps are for practice, but that 64 will be used in the tournament. That means that what was the "Roaring 48" just two years ago is now the "Roaring 64."

Mosier said, "240 shooters can be ready to go each hour. The problem now is to get as many shooters as possible interested in shooting in the early squads."

The biggest day of the tournament will be Friday when John Steffen of Minneapolis, Minn. attempts to defend his Grand American Handicap title. Steffen won last year with a 99 from 24½ yards. No one in the history of the Grand Handicap has ever repeated.

Last year there were 3,932 in the Grand. Both Mosier and tournament director Ron Peters expect the total shooters in the one day to go past the 4,000 mark this year.

Duane Thomas Out, Redskins Decide

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Washington Redskins have apparently had their fill of Duane Thomas.

"He's free to do whatever he wants to do," Tim Temerario, director of player personnel and assistant general manager of the Redskins, said Wednesday of the controversial running back. "He can make a deal with somebody else and they can just call

John Miller Tries Out New Grip

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Johnny Miller, trying to revive a golf game that has gone from very, very good to something less than mediocre, has made what he calls "a radical change."

It involves his grip. He's trying it out in the $200,000 Greater Hartford Open that got underway today on the 6,598-yard, par 71 Wethersfield Country Club course.

"I don't know whether it'll work or not," Miller said. "It's too soon to tell. We'll just have to see."

"What I'm doing is trying to find something that will work for Johnny Miller. I can generally get away with hitting the ball mediocre. But to win tournaments, you have to hit it good all the time."

"I just haven't been doing that."

The 1974 Player of the Year has tailed off badly after his record-setting exploits in the Arizona deserts at the start of the season. He swept those two tournaments, leading every round, shooting in the 60s in every round, twice scoring 61s. He won his fourth start of the year and ran his money-winnings to $107,318.

But nothing has gone right since then.

Race Car Driver B.J. Swanson Dies

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Racing driver B. J. Swanson, who said he enjoyed pushing his cars to the "ragged edge," died Wednesday of injuries he suffered last weekend in the Buckeye Cup Formula 5000 Championship.

A spokesman at Mansfield General Hospital said the 26-year-old Swanson, of Bristol, Ind., died of massive head injuries he received Sunday when his Lola T-332 smashed into a bridge on the winding Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course at nearby Lexington.

Track officials blamed the accident on a stuck throttle.

Funeral services for Swanson are scheduled Saturday in St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Fort Wayne, Ind., where he grew up and his parents reside.

Carry My Hope never lived up to the reputation of his sire, Carry Back. Carry My Hope, a 6-year-old gelding, ran 29 times without winning in the past two years.

Orioles Blank Kansas City, 3-0

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Jim Palmer got his 18th. So did the Tigers.

Palmer is Baltimore's ace right-hander, the winningest pitcher in the major leagues this season and perhaps on his way to the best year he's had in a long time.

He boosted his record to 18-7 Wednesday night with his fifth straight victory, a dazzling twohit, 3-0 shutout of Kansas City that enabled the Orioles to resume their charge toward the top of the American League East.

The Detroit Tigers are close to becoming the losingest team in the majors this season and perhaps on the way to the worst year they've had in a long time.

They dropped their record to 46-73 with their 18th straight defeat, an 11-inning 6-5 loss to Texas that continued their plunge toward oblivion in the American League East.

In the rest of the AL, California routed Boston 8-3, New York beat Oakland 3-1, Minnesota defeated Milwaukee 5-2 and Chicago edged Cleveland 4-3 in 12 innings.

Palmer, who wound up with six strikeouts, retired the first eight Royals he faced, gave up a two-out double to Bob Stinson in the third inning, then set down 16 in a row before Vada Pinson singled leading off the ninth. Two more batters produced three more outs — one of them a double play — and Palmer had his 16th complete game in 27 starts.

The Orioles got to Marty Pattin for all their runs in the sixth when Paul Blair singled, stole second and scored on Lee May's broken-bat single to right. Then Don Baylor hit his 19th homer into the left field bleachers.

Rangers 6, Tigers 5

With one out and two on in the 11th, Len Randle hit a grounder to Detroit shortstop Gene Michael. He stepped on second for a forceout — but when he tried for an innnging double play, his throw to first was wild and the Rangers' winning run scored.

The Tigers' 18th straight loss is just two short of the AL record, six below the modern-day major league mark and eight shy of the all-time record of 26, suffered in 1889 by Louisville of the American Association when it was a major league team.

Angels 8, Red Sox 3

Mike Miley's two-run single capped a six-run third inning that permitted the Angels to breeze past Boston and cut the Red Sox' lead over Baltimore to six games in the East.

Yankees 3, A's 1

Catfish Hunter beat his former Oakland teammates for the third time this year, this time with a three-hitter. Sandy Alomar's squeeze bunt gave the Yanks the winning run in the third inning.

Twins 5, Brewers 2

Solo homers by Steve Braun and Danny Thompson in the sixth inning and a two-run belt by Phil Roof in the eighth offset a pair of blasts by Milwaukee's Darrell Porter and carried the Twins to victory.

White Sox 4, Indians 3

Pete Varney drew a basesloaded walk from Rick Waits to force in the 12th-inning run that enabled Chicago to top the Indians.

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP) — Lones Wigger shot a 6,399 here Wednesday and captured his third national smallbore prone championship.

Wigger, an Army major stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., was one point short of a perfect score. But his score beat the old record of 6,396 set in 1970.

The Army officer won his other championships in 1963 and 1973.

The winner returned $14.40, $4.60 and $3.60. Gusto Omaha paid $6.60 and $4 for second and Company Man, $3.80 for show.

Orioles Blank Kansas City, 3-0

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Jim Palmer got his 18th. So did the Tigers.

Palmer is Baltimore's ace right-hander, the winningest pitcher in the major leagues this season and perhaps on his way to the best year he's had in a long time.

He boosted his record to 18-7 Wednesday night with his fifth straight victory, a dazzling twohit, 3-0 shutout of Kansas City that enabled the Orioles to resume their charge toward the top of the American League East.

The Detroit Tigers are close to becoming the losingest team in the majors this season and perhaps on the way to the worst year they've had in a long time.

They dropped their record to 46-73 with their 18th straight defeat, an 11-inning 6-5 loss to Texas that continued their plunge toward oblivion in the American League East.

In the rest of the AL, California routed Boston 8-3, New York beat Oakland 3-1, Minnesota defeated Milwaukee 5-2 and Chicago edged Cleveland 4-3 in 12 innings.

Palmer, who wound up with six strikeouts, retired the first eight Royals he faced, gave up a two-out double to Bob Stinson in the third inning, then set down 16 in a row before Vada Pinson singled leading off the ninth. Two more batters produced three more outs — one of them a double play — and Palmer had his 18th complete game in 27 starts.

The Orioles got to Marty Pattin for all their runs in the sixth when Paul Blair singled, stole second and scored on Lee May's broken-bat single to right. Then Don Baylor hit his 19th homer into the left field bleachers.

Rangers 6, Tigers 5

With one out and two on in the 11th, Len Randle hit a grounder to Detroit shortstop Gene Michael. He stepped on second for a forceout — but when he tried for an innnging double play, his throw to first was wild and the Rangers' winning run scored.

The Tigers' 18th straight loss is just two short of the AL record, six below the modern-day major league mark and eight shy of the all-time record of 26, suffered in 1889 by Louisville of the American Association when it was a major league team.

Angels 8, Red Sox 3

Mike Miley's two-run single capped a six-run third inning that permitted the Angels to breeze past Boston and cut the Red Sox' lead over Baltimore to six games in the East.

Yankees 3, A's 1

Catfish Hunter beat his former Oakland teammates for the third time this year, this time with a three-hitter. Sandy Alomar's squeeze bunt gave the Yanks the winning run in the third inning.

Twins 5, Brewers 2

Solo homers by Steve Braun and Danny Thompson in the sixth inning and a two-run belt by Phil Roof in the eighth offset a pair of blasts by Milwaukee's Darrell Porter and carried the Twins to victory.

White Sox 4, Indians 3

Pete Varney drew a basesloaded walk from Rick Waits to force in the 12th-inning run that enabled Chicago to top the Indians.

Remember I told all of you once before that this muggy, highly humid hot weather addles my thought processes and the "proof of the pudding" came through again in last week's chatter. I had Dave and Janet Lovett and T.D. as Faith Ann "Lollipop" Picklesimer's uncle, aunt and cousin when actually they are her brother-in-law, sister and nephew. One thing for sure and certain there are those who read the Herald because I have been told not once but many times of my goof.

It is special request time again and this time it is for my Marvie baby Thompson. Poor Marvie baby is feeling "right puny" and is a patient at Berger Hospital so please send him a card right away and brighten his day. He is one really super great fellow as all those who know him well will quickly tell you. Marvie baby is in Room 8.

Friends will be distressed to learn that Margaret (Mrs. Paul) Fulton is a patient at Riverside Hospital, Columbus, suffering from a heart attack. She is in Room 2001. Margaret "Peg" is the daughter of Emma Steinhauser Puffinbarger and the late Web Steinhauser. She "grew up" in these parts.

Grandma B (Agnes Brayshaw) continues in poor condition at the home of her son-in-law and daughter Pete and Pearl Cochenour. Recent visitors have been Grandma's friends of many years. Mrs. Selma Kroen of Aliquippa, Pa. and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ayers and Darlene of Rochester, Pa.

Her son Roy Brayshaw of Monaca, Pa. comes over quite often. Granddaughter Vallie (Mrs. Bill) Long of Daartown and two of the Long images Jackie and Brett were Saturday overnights. Pete's cousin Curtis Cochenour of Belville, Mich. was a Monday caller and other recent visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Large of Chillicothe. They used to live in Woodlyn (our Williamsport suburb). Remember Grandma B in your prayers.

While you are sending cards of cheer please address one to our little ten-year-old relative Rhonda Bartholomew who is a surgical patient at Riverside Hospital in Room 770, Columbus. Rhonda is a darling, dimpled daughter of Ronnie and Pat Bartholomew of Circleville. She eagerly looks forward to mail time at the hospital so take time from your busy life to add a spot of cheer in the life of a small child. You will be so glad you did.

As I have said so many times before it is not essential that you know the person to whom you send a get well wish it is just important to wish them well.

Mae Littler was one surprised gal when her family tossed a surprise birthday bash for her last Friday evening. The happy occasion was celebrated at the home of Eddie and Peggy Litter at Londonderry with daughters Tracey Jo, Julie and Patti helping with the hostess duties. Also wishing mom and grandmom the very best were Dale "Butch" and Mary Ann Litter Russell and their Tina, Rita and Pete; Michael and Tammy Litter Stacey and their new wee one Shana Jo, and of course Mae's other half Herschel.

Shana Jo, by the way, is a fourth generation which makes Herschel and Mae proud great grandparents. Tracey Jo and Tina have enjoyed being with their grandparents off and on for the greater part of this summer vacation.

Our ten-year-old Amy is in Roundtown for a few days to be with her "buddy" Belle Sowers as well as Jim and Twana.

Due to a vacationing hostess (me) in July our canasta club skipped that month and resumed play this past Tuesday evening. The month's rest proved to be a good one for yours truly because I played very well (harumph) and took high prize; traveling went to Dorothy Carle; low to Jackie Hopper and door prize to Colleen Justice.

Also helping to make it a real fun evening were Margene Looney, Esther Picklesimer, Pearl Cochenour and Mae Litter.

It was a bonanza of a time for secret sister gifts since receiving them were Mae, Pearl, Esther, Colleen and Margene. Don't forget mine in September, girls!

Harry and Cora Young have returned to the work-a-day world after a vacation visit with friends and relatives in the Louisa, Ky. area. Well, Harry returned to the work world for one day and then had the misfortune to severely cut his hand in an accident at home and is now on an "enforced" rest.

Muscular Dystrophy
Enterprising youngsters Richard and Scott Speakman, Penny and Tammy Williamson, Sheryl Cox with an assist from Amy Easterday are planning a Muscular Dystrophy Carnival to be held in Williamsport this Saturday at 310 S. Main St.

The carnival will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will continue for as long as there is anyone left to enjoy himself. Everyone is encouraged to attend and have a neat time as well as help a most worthwhile cause.

There will be many interesting things for young and old. A table of homemade articles and goodies will be available to buy.

If there is anyone interested in donating items to be sold please contact the youngsters at 986-6725. Keep in mind the adage "No one is so tall as when they stoop to help a child."

Woody and Patty Reed and Melanie were on the camping trail through Kentucky and Tennessee for a few days last week. While they were gone Patty's sister Dolly Thompson minded Reed's Variety Store located west of our town on Route 22.

Festival
Lots of details on the upcoming Deercreek Dam Days Festival in next week's jabberwocky so keep an eye out for it. Dates for contest registrations, the planned program and so forth and so on. I hope I can get all put together that I am trying to get accomplished in the next week or so.

A yard sale for next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at our abode is in the making (so watch it pour down rain on those days). If rain be the situation then I guess we will go inside and call it a garage sale, simple huh?

The Rev. Richard Crosby will have business as usual in the pulpit of Williamsport United Methodist Church this next Sunday. Rev. C. and his Marybelle have had an enjoyable three weeks fishing vacation at Marble Lake, Quincy, Mich. Lay speakers during this time were Dale Delong, Billy Carter and Charles Wellman.

I am not really sure whether there were any fish catching records broken but who cares as long as our ministerial family had a fun time. Their two daughters and their families, who all live in the northwestern part of our state, also vacationed at Marble Lake at the same time so this in itself would make for happy days.

Betty Cox is walking on air these days because she attended the Ross County Fair and was lucky enough to have her number drawn for a dinner with country western singer Johnny Carver at the Holiday Inn at Chillicothe. Betty's hubby Floyd was also a dinner guest and others in the party were disc jockey Jack Bartley and his wife.

Be with you again next week, be the Lord willing, Take care.

Drowning Search Cut

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Park officials said search efforts for the body of an Ohio man missing in Lewis Lake since Aug. 6 have been reduced.

Intensive search efforts were launched earlier including the use of divers and a helicopter as well as dragging operations. Shore patrols along with periodic efforts with boats will continue on a regular basis, a park spokesman said Wednesday.

Brenton Kirk, Jr., 21, of New Philadelphia, Ohio is missing, police said. Kirk and his brother, Phillip, 18, were canoeing on the lake when a witness said he saw lightning hit the 17-foot aluminum canoe which capsized. Phillip Kirk was pulled from the water by another boater but there has been no trace of the elder Kirk.

Officials said the water in the lake is up to 100 feet deep and extremely cold.

AT TED LEWIS PARK—M and M Paving Co. workers have completed major improvements for an interchange at Ted Lewis Park. Curbs and gutters have been installed, and a portion of the sidewalk is nearly finished. When completed, the road will offer an entranceway to the park, and two exit routes for right and left turns.

CEA Battles Consumer Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Federation of America (CFA) has called on its estimated 30-million members to lobby vigorously against one provision of the proposed Agency for Consumer Protection bill.

The umbrella-group of organizations says the provision, added in the Senate by a 55-34 vote on the motion of Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., would bar that consumer-advocate agency from intervening in all federal decision-making that relates to food production and marketing: from the soil to the supper table.

In its current newsletter, the CFA calls the Dole amendment "a horrendous proposal ... an outrageous limitation on the (agency) scope and effectiveness as a consumer advocate."

The consumer bill has passed the House Government Operations Committee and is scheduled for floor debate in early September.

As it passed the committee, the measure did not contain the Dole amendment. A representative could attempt to add it on the House floor, if the Rules Committee permits, a Dole aide said Wednesday.

Dole spokesmen maintain that the CFA is wrong about the scope of his amendment. They say it specifically does not exempt the costs and quality of food after it leaves the farm from agency jurisdiction. "It's just raw food, just production," said one aide.

A spokesman gave, as examples of what Dole wants the proposed agency to stay out of such government policy decisions as milk marketing orders, grain exports and beef grading.

Those are precisely the sorts of things the CFA wants to assure a consumerist voice in, "to protect both farmers and consumers" against agribusiness middlemen from meatpackers to giant grain firms to vertically integrated supermarket corporations.

The CFA said the amendment would completely exclude the agency from government decisions affecting "the safety, quality, supply and price of food."

Dole's main argument on the floor was that marketing orders, grading standards and the like are required to take consumer perspectives into account through public hearings or written comments.

Some evidence suggests that certain USDA agencies ignore those consumer comments as "uninformed", such as on the new beef-grading proposals.

It has been learned that, from now on, their actions in such decisions must pass muster before the White House budget office staffers assigned to reduce federal economic regulation that, top officials say, hurts consumers as much as businesses.

The CFA also wants the proposed new agency to be able to take on the Environmental Protection Agency when its activities "seriously threaten agriculture in some areas", and various other agencies' food-related programs.

Drowning Search Cut

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Park officials said search efforts for the body of an Ohio man missing in Lewis Lake since Aug. 6 have been reduced.

Intensive search efforts were launched earlier including the use of divers and a helicopter as well as dragging operations. Shore patrols along with periodic efforts with boats will continue on a regular basis, a park spokesman said Wednesday.

Brenton Kirk, Jr., 21, of New Philadelphia, Ohio is missing, police said. Kirk and his brother, Phillip, 18, were canoeing on the lake when a witness said he saw lightning hit the 17-foot aluminum canoe which capsized. Phillip Kirk was pulled from the water by another boater but there has been no trace of the elder Kirk.

Officials said the water in the lake is up to 100 feet deep and extremely cold.

AT TED LEWIS PARK—M and M Paving Co. workers have completed major improvements for an interchange at Ted Lewis Park. Curbs and gutters have been installed, and a portion of the sidewalk is nearly finished. When completed, the road will offer an entranceway to the park, and two exit routes for right and left turns.

CEA Battles Consumer Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Federation of America (CFA) has called on its estimated 30-million members to lobby vigorously against one provision of the proposed Agency for Consumer Protection bill.

The umbrella-group of organizations says the provision, added in the Senate by a 55-34 vote on the motion of Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., would bar that consumer-advocate agency from intervening in all federal decision-making that relates to food production and marketing: from the soil to the supper table.

In its current newsletter, the CFA calls the Dole amendment "a horrendous proposal... an outrageous limitation on the (agency) scope and effectiveness as a consumer advocate."

The consumer bill has passed the House Government Operations Committee and is scheduled for floor debate in early September.

As it passed the committee, the measure did not contain the Dole amendment. A representative could attempt to add it on the House floor, if the Rules Committee permits, a Dole aide said Wednesday.

Dole spokesmen maintain that the CFA is wrong about the scope of his amendment. They say it specifically does not exempt the costs and quality of food after it leaves the farm from agency jurisdiction. "It's just raw food, just production," said one aide.

A spokesman gave, as examples of what Dole wants the proposed agency to stay out of such government policy decisions as milk marketing orders, grain exports and beef grading.

Those are precisely the sorts of things the CFA wants to assure a consumerist voice in, "to protect both farmers and consumers" against agribusiness middlemen from meatpackers to giant grain firms to vertically integrated supermarket corporations.

The CFA said the amendment would completely exclude the agency from government decisions affecting "the safety, quality, supply and price of food."

Dole's main argument on the floor was that marketing orders, grading standards and the like are required to take consumer perspectives into account through public hearings or written comments.

Some evidence suggests that certain USDA agencies ignore those consumer comments as "uninformed", such as on the new beef-grading proposals.

It has been learned that, from now on, their actions in such decisions must pass muster before the White House budget office staffers assigned to reduce federal economic regulation that, top officials say, hurts consumers as much as businesses.

The CFA also wants the proposed new agency to be able to take on the Environmental Protection Agency when its activities "seriously threaten agriculture in some areas", and various other agencies' food-related programs.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Ask, if in doubt, but do not become unsettled at every sign of complexity. In general, hold the line against wavering and lack of confidence.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Planetary aspects now warn against misleading influences, deceit and dubious schemes. Be alert, and counteract with your innate honesty and good judgment.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Unusual situations will now call for top-flight performance. Sudden shifts in circumstances should not deter you from pursuing meaningful goals. Just keep plugging.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Slow down for a better look at your involvements. Don't spend money before you have it, but don't fear a competitive try at something, nor turn down good investments.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Make preliminary plans subject to final touch-up on Monday. Thus get the jump on time pressures. Exercise patience, forethought, no matter what your schedule.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Your ambitious and normally bright, enterprising self can be given full rein now. You are in a position to make fine long-range plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Bag that prize — but with your Sign's usual integrity and forthright effort. Stabilize all your personal relationships; strengthen the peacekeeper's role.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You can be very thrifty, or too extravagant; can indulge other extremes, also, if not alert to this tendency now. Look for that "middle road" and stick to it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You have an exceptionally good planetary set-up yet must still toe the line in order to avoid friction with those who are not in so comfortable a position.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Better-than-average day but, you will have to grasp the good things firmly, and quickly put aside the undesirable. Use your best judgment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Harmony and self-control needed now. Don't antagonize those in a position to help you. Aim to improve ideas and methods.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Wade through possible difficult issues, or relax in the pressureless periods today. Whichever, you will need these traits: imagination, ability to see the humorous side of situations.

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely versatile individual, ambitious and dynamic of personality. You also have tremendous driving powers and should make an outstanding success in any field of your choosing. However, you MUST learn to conserve energies and not overtax yourself. Once self-disciplined and educated along the proper lines, you could excel as a business executive, writer, musician, banker, statesman or military leader. Do avoid impulsiveness, however, and try to curb your tendency toward extremism. Birthdate of: Napoleon Bonaparte, Emperor of France; Sir Walter Scott, Eng. novelist; Princess Ann, of England.

Feathered Friends Turns On Readers

NEW YORK (AP) — Teaching aides usually don't come decked out in yellow feathers but this fall many grade-school teachers across the U.S. will be using the very yellow Big Bird and his "Sesame Street" cronies to turn new and problem learners on to reading.

It's all part of a new three-part multimedia reading assistance program jointly developed by the Children's Television Workshop and the Addison-Wesley publishing company to give teachers the proven appeal and popularity of "Sesame Street" and CTW's grade-school-level reading show, "The Electric Company," as tools to head off reading failure.

One of the three supplemental classroom reading kits based on "Sesame Street" is designed to teach prereading on the kindergarten and first-grade levels. The other two, one of which is already being used in schools, employs "Electric Company" characters to teach important first elements of the actual reading process.

The Atlantic green turtle is a reptile adapted for life in the sea. The front legs are developed as broad flippers. Most species of turtle can draw the head, legs and tails into the shell for protection.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — For five years, Sue Cameron has been a TV critic and chronicler of broadcast industry news for the Hollywood Reporter, a trade magazine. As such, she often phones network executives. Like others in her dodge, she knows the usual secretarial reply is, "They're tied up in a meeting now." But now she believes it. "It's the truth," she says. "They really are always in a meeting."

Miss Cameron knows whereof she speaks. Because this week she gave up TV criticizing and chronicling to become ABC's new director of daytime program development, Los Angeles division.

The 30-year-old Los Angeles native, a USC journalism graduate with no prior experience as a broadcast executive, says the new job sort of stemmed from her daily news column about the broadcast industry.

"When I started it, I had the option of doing stupid gossip stuff," she laughed. "Or I could really write a business column where I could talk to the producers and network executives and really find out how the business was run."

She opted for the latter and found it not only a lively source of news, but also the best possible way to learn about TV, from producing to programming, from script changes to film editing.

In her work, she said, she became a friend and admirer of Fred Silverman, regarded as one of the smartest men in the business, when he was running CBS' programs division two years ago. "Sometimes I'd fly to New York just to have lunch with him because I respected his mind so much," she said. "And he'd sit and talk about programming for hours."

She said he'd explain to her why one show might work, why women might prefer one show and men another, why a bad lead-in could hurt a show and the arts of scheduling and promoting shows.

Her conclusions: "It's like the biggest crossword puzzle or Monopoly game in the world."

She said about a year ago, Silverman offered her a job with CBS, but she turned it down, preferring to stay in Los Angeles.

Shortly after he joined ABC as its programs chief this spring, she said, she was invited by Brandon Stoddard, ABC's daytime programs development chief, to sign on as his top Los Angeles assistant.

She said it was Stoddard's idea to offer her the job. She leaped at the chance, she said, partly because she loves the field of daytime programming. There was another factor, she added.

"All these years I've been making suggestions in the column like, 'If you put this show here, I think you'll get a better share (of audience) than if you put it there,'" she said.

"And for me to actually have someone say, 'Come on in and do it for real, play with the big guys,' I couldn't resist it."

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — For five years, Sue Cameron has been a TV critic and chronicler of broadcast industry news for the Hollywood Reporter, a trade magazine. As such, she often phones network executives. Like others in her dodge, she knows the usual secretarial reply is, "They're tied up in a meeting now." But now she believes it. "It's the truth," she says. "They really are always in a meeting."

Miss Cameron knows whereof she speaks. Because this week she gave up TV criticizing and chronicling to become ABC's new director of daytime program development, Los Angeles division.

The 30-year-old Los Angeles native, a USC journalism graduate with no prior experience as a broadcast executive, says the new job sort of stemmed from her daily news column about the broadcast industry.

"When I started it, I had the option of doing stupid gossip stuff," she laughed. "Or I could really write a business column where I could talk to the producers and network executives and really find out how the business was run." She opted for the latter and found it not only a lively source of news, but also the best possible way to learn about TV, from producing to programming, from script changes to film editing.

In her work, she said, she became a friend and admirer of Fred Silverman, regarded as one of the smartest men in the business, when he was running CBS' programs division two years ago. "Sometimes I'd fly to New York just to have lunch with him because I respected his mind so much," she said. "And he'd sit and talk about programming for hours." She said he'd explain to her why one show might work, why women might prefer one show and men another, why a bad lead-in could hurt a show and the arts of scheduling and promoting shows.

Her conclusions: "It's like the biggest crossword puzzle or Monopoly game in the world."

She said about a year ago, Silverman offered her a job with CBS, but she turned it down, preferring to stay in Los Angeles.

Shortly after he joined ABC as its programs chief this spring, she said, she was invited by Brandon Stoddard, ABC's daytime programs development chief, to sign on as his top Los Angeles assistant.

She said it was Stoddard's idea to offer her the job. She leaped at the chance, she said, partly because she loves the field of daytime programming. There was another factor, she added. "All these years I've been making suggestions in the column like, 'If you put this show here, I think you'll get a better share (of audience) than if you put it there,'" she said.

"And for me to actually have someone say, 'Come on in and do it for real, play with the big guys,' I couldn't resist it."

Social Services Topsy-Turvy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 1974 amendment to the national Social Security Act is turning social services in Ohio topsyturvy, but at least one state official is pleased.

Mildred Madry, director of the Social Services Division of the Ohio Department of Public Welfare, says the amendment, tabbed Title 20, is a "public accountability bill" designed to assure citizen participation in planning so social service will best meet public needs.

"We're pleased to have this kind of opportunity for public planning," Mrs. Madry said. "Previously, plans were made inside of state government, then submitted to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for approval.

"Now, under Title 20, the early

Ohio Faces Winter Crisis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio energy chief Robert S. Ryan said Tuesday Ohio is faced with a potential employment crisis this winter due to severe curtailments of natural gas supplies.

Ryan, executive secretary of the Energy Emergency Commission, told a commission meeting that major gas utilities will put their 60 per curtailment plan into effect Nov. 1.

"Last winter, with relatively mild weather, Ohio lost 1.6 million man days," he said. "Current reports from the pipeline companies indicate that industrial curtailments this year will be nearly twice as severe as last winter."

A monitoring system has been set up, he said, to study Ohio gas consumption throughout the winter.

He said his office is working with the Federal Energy Administration to get additional oil supplies for Ohio. He said he hoped the efforts could avoid a critical unemployment situation.

planning stage involves public comment and local participation with state policy being developed as a synthesis of profiles and plans submitted by the individual counties."

Currently, the state is in the midst of a 45-day period of public review and comment which will end Aug. 15. Then, the state will develop a "broad, flexible plan which will provide the framework within which counties will have responsibility for their own programs."

To stimulate discussion, members of her staff appeared on a number of local television shows, placed advertisements in 97 state newspapers, worked with many local groups interested in social services and sent out 5,000 questionnaires to determine citizens' views on the areas of greatest needs.

They were overwhelmed by the responses from the more than 3,000 questionnaires returned, she said.

"These showed the major citizen concern was the need for improved employment services," she said, listing other areas as service for the handicapped, those in state institutions, teen-agers and infants.

The final plan she said, will be based on these statements of need, within the constraints of available funds. The state program must be completed by Oct. 1 and would become effective at the beginning of 1976.

With program responsibility at the local level, she said, the function of the state would then be one of channeling funds and monitoring county progress as HEW will monitor state progress.

"It's not a matter of state control," she said, "as it is a matter of equitable distribution of funds to the local level. We have to remember that Ohio counties are diverse in their needs and general progress."

Title 20, Mrs. Madry said, is government's response to trends which were started in the 1960s, specifically the War on Poverty "which established a basic philosophical attitude;" the development of vocal special interest groups; the civil rights movement, and the diminishing of the stigma previously related to being on public welfare.

Exchange Students Like Circleville

VISITING STUDENTS—Miguel (Mike) Fortunat and Fernando (Fred) Saucedo are exchange students from Mexico City. They have been spending their summer vacation in Circleville, and both of them like the small town atmosphere.

By ANDREA PORTER
Journalism Intern

Imagine entering Circleville for the first time. Now, picture yourself a student from Mexico . . . flying into Port Columbus and driving into Circleville for the first time with an "adopted, summer family."

What do they think of the town? Miguel Fortunat described Circleville in one word, "peaceful."

Mike, as he prefers to be called by his friends in Circleville, came to the United States on the Fourth of July. His is staying with Mrs. Marguerite Bergen and her family at 110 Park St.

Fernando Saucedo (Matar) compared Circleville to his hometown, Mexico City. He said in Mexican towns, the houses are very poor, whereas here they are nice. Also in Mexico, the majority of the buildings are small and old.

Fred, the English and preferred form of his name, is spending the summer with the family of Mrs. Myrna Linthicum, of 230 Pawnee Drive in Logan Elm Village.

He did not arrive here until two weeks after the other students from Mexico because he had tests to take. Both Fred and Mike are here through the International Youth Fellowship (IYF) program.

Mike and Fred had met once in Mexico City at a party. They recognized each other from pictures sent to their "summer parents."

Mike's interests include music, sports and food.

"In Mexico, it doesn't matter if the boys cook," Mike said. He enjoys working in the kitchen and demonstrated this by fixing the Bergen's a complete Mexican dish.

As far as sporting events go, Mike plays tennis, golf, badminton and likes to fence.

When Mike returns to Mexico in September, he has one week before he returns to school. The 16-year-old will be entering his 12th year of school.

This is his second year at a veterinary technical school. He lives at school ten months and sees his parents on weekends.

When the two Mexicans were reacquainted in Circleville, Fred told Mike that his aunts were friends of Mike's parents. In fact, one of them had even lived in the house Mike presently lives in. They realized then what the phrase "It's a small world." means.

Fred said the students here should realize how lucky they are with their school systems. The school buildings in Mexico are old and very small and they don't have anything similar to a gymnasium or an auditorium. Also, he attends an all-boys school.

Fred enjoys the sports of football and tennis. He has played tennis everyday since he came.

Mrs. Linthicum's son, Wayne, is on the Logan Elm football team, so Fred will be able to see three scrimmages before he leaves.

Fred, 17-years-old, will be in his last year of school, and will go into the area of business administration. Fred explained that everyone must decide between four areas of concentration to specialize in.

Last month, the Bergen's, Linthicum's, Mike and Fred went to Sea World for two days. The boys have been together frequently this summer, but nobody but themselves can understand what they are talking about when they converse in Spanish.

Mrs. Linthicum said her family has not learned much of the Spanish language. Fred knows English so well, they rarely need to help him with a word or phrase.

Mrs. Bergen said the theme of the IYF program is to promote goodwill between countries.

All the students and families send in monthly reports to IYF headquarters in Buffalo. Both parties are also given a list of rules and suggestions, mainly to safeguard the students.

These include such things as the student must not drive and he must be accompanied at all times by an adult. One of the suggestions is that the guardian act as a financial advisor until the student learns the money system.

Brent Bill Speaks To Moundbuilders

Conflicting statements were given by the occupants of the car and Deputy Randy McCoy said the driver of the vehicle has not yet been determined.

The occupants did agree on one thing — the vehicle was traveling at an excessive rate of speed of over 100 miles per hour when the accident occurred.

The car was owned by Oeida L. Mertins, Route 3. Occupants of the car were Eric Mertins, 25, James L. Neff 15, and Ronald Scarbrough. Neff was treated and released from Berger Hospital. Scarbrough, whose account of the accident differed with the others, was advised to see a physician for treatment.

Taken to Mercy Hospital by the Scioto Twp. emergency medical rescue squad were Timmons, Vicky Rodenfels, 3; Michele Rodenfels, 7 months and Angella Mueller, 19. All were treated and released.

James Sowers, 16, Route 1, Clarksburg, was charged with driving off the left side of the road by Deputy Larry Kellenberger following an accident that occurred 4:50 p.m. Wednesday in Perry Twp. on the Locust Grove-Dublin Hill Road. Sowers said he dropped a soft drink can in the car,
